LEWIS FACES COURT AGAIN

Another Possible Contempt Charge Seen; Hearing Set for June 1.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 25—John L. Lewis' refusal to bargain a new contract with the Southern Coal Producers association could put him in contempt of court next week for the third time in 18 months.

Lewis and the United Mine Workers already have been fined $2,130,000 for ignoring back-to-work orders in strikes of December 1946, and April, 1948.

The same judge who imposed those fines, T. Alan Goldsborough, will decide next Tuesday whether Lewis should be put under a new court order. This one would be an injunction to keep the UMW boss from snubbing President Moody of the Southern association as a wage negotiator. Last week's short-lived contract talks broke up over that issue.

Robert N. Denman, general counsel of the national labor relations board, stepped into the case late yesterday at Moody's request.

Complaint Filed

He filed a complaint against Lewis, accusing him of an unfair labor practice under the Taft-Hartley law.

This complaint will be heard by an NLRB trial examiner, a time-consuming process.

So Denman instructed NLRB attorneys to go into Goldsborough's court and ask for (a). an immediate restraining order designed to start the wage talks again within five days and (b) a "show cause" hearing on why an outright injunction should not be issued until the NLRB rules on the unfair labor practice charge.

Goldsborough rejected the first request but granted the second and set the hearing for June 1. If Lewis fails to show cause why the judge issues the injunction the Mine Union chief will be faced with the choice of complying or running the risk of a third contempt action.

Double-Barreled Charge

In his complaint, Denman charged Lewis both with refusing to bargain with the Southern association and trying to coerce employers in the choice of a bargaining agent.

Moody appealed to Denman last Wednesday after the breakdown of the contract talks.

Lewis refused to sit down with Moody because the Southern association as such, did not sign the last contract. It therefore is entitled to negotiate a new one, he argued.

Moody reported that Lewis would not let the association sign the contract last July. Individual members, fearing union retaliation, signed separately instead of as a group, Moody said.

COUNCIL VOTES DOWN PAY HIKE, PIN BALL TAX

Action Taken on Two Issues of Long Standing; Housing Plat Approved.

City council Monday night temporarily at least settled two of its tougher problems, taking action after several months controversy to vote down a proposed 15-cent-an-hour pay raise to municipal service and garbage department workers and voting down a proposed pinball machine and juke box taxing ordinance.

The across the board pay raise involving 55 city employes affiliated with Local 310, United Public Workers (CIO), lost 5-4 after council suspended rules to bring the issue to a final vote. A second ordinance granting increased vacations and sick leave also pushed through to a vote, lost 6-3.

The pinball ordinance, attacked strenuously by Attorney Robert Kelly, representing the Marion Restaurant association and Frank Wiedemann, representing a Galion operator with a large local interest, was killed outright. All nine members of council voted against it. The measure would have taxed pinball machines and juke boxes 10 per cent of gross receipts in addition to an initial license fee of $5 per machine and a yearly license of $1. The measure would have netted the city an estimated $12,000 to $15,000 in revenue annually.

The close vote on the pay request for the city workers followed a plea by Mayor Harry L Dowler that council not "precipitate Marion into a financial crisis."

Opposed by Mayor

Mayor Dowler, rising to his feet as council called for the final vote, declared, "As mayor, it is my duty under the general code of Ohio to protest action of council authorizing expenditure of funds in excess of revenues received. If council approves the pay request and thereby increases the costs of municipal operation, council must likewise find the funds to pay for it. The responsibility is that of council, not of the mayor," he warned.

He cited figures in a general survey of hourly pay rates in effect in other cities, pointing out that the present rates of pay to Marion service and garbage department workers are equal to the average.

Present pay scale here for the 55 workers shows 28 are on the payroll at 95 cents an hour, 14 at $1, 10 at $1.10 and three at $1.25

Brought to a vote, the measure found Councilmen Harold Smith, First ward, James Jenkins, Second ward, Herman Rinehart, Third ward and Herman Miller, Fifth ward, for granting the pay hike with the five remaining council members opposed.

On the request for an additional two days added to regular vacation schedules and an increase in sick leave to department workers, Councilmen Jenkins, Rinehart and Miller cast affirmative votes

Pinball Ordinance

The ordinance licensing and regulating mechanical amusement devices, patterned after similar ordinances in effect in Toledo and several other Ohio cities was brought out of committee last night after a lapse of several months.

A revenue seeking measure, it would have brought the city additional funds for operating purposes. The ordinance had earmarked 50 per cent of annual receipts for equipping, maintaining and operating parks, playgrounds and recreation activities in Marion. The other 50 per cent of the revenue derived was to

REVISE PLANS FOR AIRPORT

Cathers in Chicago To Work Out Details with Engineering Firm.

City Engineer Tom S. Cathers is in Chicago today, expediting revision of plans for the new municipal airport.

A joint conference with representatives of Clark Hickey & Co. and the Civil Aeronautics administration is being held to effect agreement on technical details involved in the revision of airport plans.

The city engineer left by train late last night and is expected to return tonight after the meeting. City council last night authorized the trip.

With final revision nearing completion, Mr. Cathers was instructed to meet with the engineering firm handling the plans and representatives of CAA to insure all details were taken care of before plans were returned to Marion for action.

It was indicated that the revised plans would be in the hands of local officials within several weeks. When the city would be ready to readvertise for bids on initial construction of the airport was not stated.

In connection with pending development of the airport site, county commissioners have indicated to the Chamber of Commerce street and highway committee that action to improve the Pole Lane road, direct route to the airport, would be on the list of projects considered for 1949. Improvement of the Pole Lane road including regrading of the Erie and New York Central railroad crossing, would be instrumental also in state highway department approval of an alternate 30-S truck route as favored by the Chamber committee.

The route would leave 30-S at the Pole Lane road, go north to East Fairground street, west on Fairground and over the Garden City pike to 30-S west of Marion. Purpose would be to divert heavy truck traffic away from downtown Marion.

Fire Damages Roof Of Wesleyan Parsonage

Fire damaged the roof of the First Wesleyan Methodist parsonage at 592 Silver street yesterday at 11:51 a. m., the fire department reported. The home, occupied by Rev. Eldon R. Martin and family, was set afire by a spark from the chimney and resulted in an estimated $1,000 damage. A hole burned in the roof is temporarily covered by tarpaulin. West Center street firemen and the quad truck responded.

City May Lose Patrol Station Unless New Quarters Are Found

"Marion may lose its sub-station of the state highway patrol if suitable housing for the station can not be found in the near future," it was announced here today by Lt. A. L. Bouton of Columbus, chief of the barracks rental department of the patrol.

The settlement of the estate of the late Harry Haberman and the resultant sale of the building housing the present patrol barracks by the estate necessitates the patrol seek a new home here.

"We would like to keep the substation here in Marion if at all possible," Lt. Bouton said, "but removal will be necessary if we can't find housing here. Our housing requirements are comparatively simple. First of all the housing must be situation on a main street, if possible a state route. We need a suitable vacant front room for a patrol office, preferably large, and it must have a separate entrance. We will need one bedroom and toilet facilities and garage space for one car on the premises.

"The patrol provides all its own office furniture and equipment. In some communities people have built or are building small homes on main highways for the purpose of renting them to the patrol. We are long term tenants and if at some future date the builder and owner of the home wishes to convert it into a dwelling for rent or sale he may easily do so.

"Any one who owns or knows of a place which can fill our needs is urgently urged to call Corporal Morgan immediately at 2211 and advise him of the place and its location. The need is critical and the time in which to fulfill it is short," Lt. Bouton concluded.

WAR GOES ON AS ARABS TAKE UP TRUCE PLAN

Given Until Noon Tomorrow To Make Decision on UN Request.

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

LAKE SUCCESS, May 25—Faris El Khoury, of Syria, predicted today the Arabs will not accept an unconditional security council cease fire order. The Syrian delegate, chief Arab spokesman on the United Nations security council, told newsmen the Arabs have insisted throughout all truce talks that there must be no Jewish nation.

By The Associated Press

CAIRO, May 25—Heavy fighting continued in and around Jerusalem today while political representatives of the seven Arab states met in Trans-Jordan to consider a United Nations request for a truce in Palestine.

The Jewish army reported in Tel Aviv that Jewish forces recaptured Ramat Rehel, Jewish village halfway between Jerusalem and Bethlehem, where a strong Arab assault yesterday routed Jewish defenders. Haganah also said the Jewish air force bombed enemy positions around Jerusalem just after midnight.

Arabs resumed shelling Ramat Rehel, the Jewish communique said. The village was taken yesterday in an attack by two Egyptian companies, forces of King Abdullah's Trans-Jordan Legion and Arab irregulars, supported by field guns. Haganah regrouped its forces and counter-attacked. Casualties were reported heavy on both sides.

Prior to their conference at Amman, King Abdullah's capital, Arab leaders indicated they will stop shooting only if Zionists give up the idea of a sovereign Jewish state and disband the Jewish army. The Jews were considered certain to reject such demands.

Extended Till Tomorrow

The UN security council last night extended until noon tomorrow, eastern standard time, the deadline for a cease fire in the Arab-Jewish warfare. Egypt and Syria asked the 48-hour extension and no delegates opposed it.

The Arabs are under pressure from the British to stop fighting. A foreign office spokesman in London said Britain had warned the Arab states she expects them to observe the UN request.

Failure to comply might lead to suspension of treaty commitments to the Arab states, such as the supplying of arms and military training to King Abdullah's Trans-Jordan Arab Legion, government sources in London said.

The Jews had accepted the UN request with its original deadline of noon yesterday.

May Hear Decision Today

There was a chance the United Nations might get word from Amman of an Arab decision sometime today. Faris El Khoury of Syria told the security council the political committee of the Arab League representing the seven Arab nations would disclose their attitude no later than tomorrow noon.

Among the Arab politicians at the Amman meeting was Syrian Premier Jamil Mardam Bey. Abdel Rahman Azzam Pasha, secretary-general of the league, would not comment on what the Arab decision might be.

Against outside pressure from the United Nations and the British the Arabs had to weigh the feeling at Homen Arab leaders are acutely conscious of public demand in Arab countries for decisive action to smash the Zionists and their fledgling state, Arab informants said.

These sources said a cease fire order now would nullify Arab gains in Jerusalem, leaving the important Arab port city of Jaffa in Jewish hands, and put Palestinian Arabs generally at a disadvantage.

The fighting went on despite the cease fire negotiations.

ALSO EXPECTED TO BRING PEACE FOR CHRYSLER

Wage Plan Based on Precedent Setting Cost of Living Formula Used.

By The United Press

DETROIT, May 25 — General Motors corporation broke big industry's line against a third round of wage increases for labor today with an 11-cent hike of its 225,000 auto workers under a precedent-setting cost-of-living formula.

GM and officials of the CIO United Auto Workers reached an agreement at dawn after some 20 hours of bargaining. The company immediately offered a similar plan to its 40,000 CIO United Electrical Workers and set a meeting for 3 p. m. today.

The agreement, described by GM Vice President Harry W. Anderson as an "entirely new approach to the living cost problem," averted a strike by GM's production workers set for Friday.

It also is expected to set a pattern for settlement of the strike of 73,000 Chrysler corporation workers and for wage pacts in other industries.

Basis of Increase

Under the pact, GM production workers get an eight-cent hourly cost of living increase and a three-cent hike based on annual industrial efficiency improvement.

Terms of the agreement, subject to ratification by union members, provide that wages be adjusted up or down each three months to conform with fluctuations in the consumer price index of the federal bureau of labor statistics.

However, the company and union agreed that only five of the eight cents in the cost-of-living raise will be lost by reductions if the consumer price index goes down sharply.

Totals 55 Million A Year

John W. Livingston, UAW vice president, and T. A. Johnstone, assistant director of the Union's GM department, said the agreement means a $55,000,000 annual raise to company employes.

They estimated it would add $220,000,000 a year to auto workers' payrolls if it were extended to other companies in the industry. Anderson said that the agreement not only was important to the company and its workers, "but through example," was significant to other industries and labor groups; in fact, on the economics of the whole nation."

Main provisions of the cost-of-living wage formula included:

▶An eight-cent hourly raise now, based on a rise in the consumer price index from 100.2 in 1940 to 169.3 for April, 1948.

▶A three-cent raise now and another on May 29, 1949, as an annual improvement factor to increase the standard of living.

▶Quarterly adjustments in the cost of living factor, up or down, for each rise or fall of 1.14 points in the consumer price index. The drop is limited to five cents.

▶Wages under the formula and contract provisions cannot be changed until May 29, 1950, a two-year period. There is no retroactive feature to the contract.

Anderson said the first quarterly cost-of-living readjustment will be made on the first pay after Sept. 1, 1948, based on the July consumers' price index.

The other members of the automotive big three—the Ford Motor company and Chrysler—offered no comment on the agreement but said they were studying it.

Comparison of Pay

Under the pact, GM's average hourly pay rate becomes $1.62, compared with $1.52 at Ford and $1.44 at Chrysler. The variation in the Chrysler rate is explained by the fact that this company buys a large part of expensive parts involving high labor costs.

Chrysler officials and the union will return to the bargaining table tomorrow at 2 p. m., resuming negotiations broken off May 11, the day before Norman Matthews, UAW regional director, called the company's 73,000 workers out on strike.

The UAW-GM contract goes into effect May 28 and expires May 28, 1950.

Union leaders immediately hailed the agreement as a "staggering defeat" for management which had lined up against the new round of pay hikes.

Calls It Corporation's Idea

Anderson said the "whole settlement was a result of an idea advanced by the corporation—especially the cost-of-living raise program."

He said there was "no ceiling" on the increases possible, but also said the union had agreed that wages could go down as much as five cents in the same index proportion.

Anderson said the first adjustment in cost-of-living will be after September of this year and will be based on the July index.

TRUMAN VISIT CHEERS ISRAEL'S PRESIDENT

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 25 — Chaim Weizmann, Israel's provisional president, said President Truman gave him "some sort of hope" today the American government may lift its ban on arms shipment to the middle east.

Weizmann, here as the official guest of the American government, talked with Mr. Truman for 30 minutes at the White House.

He related to a news conference afterwards that he told the President the lifting of the arms embargo is "essential for the safety" of the Jews fighting off Arab attacks in Palestine.

In answer to questions, he said he got the impression the President might grant his request in the not too distant future.

The United States now bans shipment of military equipment to any part of the middle east. The Jews contend this works a hardship particularly on them. They say the Arabs are able to get arms elsewhere.

Weizmann also said he and the President discussed the possibility of an American loan of $90,000,000 to $100,000,000 to the newly-recognized government of Israel.

In ... form ...evice to ... one's ... y and ... esteem ...bmitting ...th of a ... man or woman. In other ... is merely an envious ...mebody else is enjoying ...den pleasure the gossiper would like to indulge in himself.

Hal Boyle

In its most deadly form it is a reflection of one's own inner feeling of doubt, terror or panic.

Gossip can be spread by an artful leader to create a war. The idle malice of the unfettered tongue is perhaps even now one of the greatest barriers to international good will.

In half a hundred countries it is a hidden force against peace, raising murky suspicions about the motives of American charity abroad. It is an unseen termite that can destroy the morale of a home, an office, a nation or a world—if unchecked.

GOSSIP is accusation without responsibility, trial without witness, persecution without reason.

It touches all subjects. The other day, for example, a taxi driver here told a friend of mine:

"See that skyscraper. It's going to fall down someday. They didn't anchor the foundation right."

The buildings happens to be one of the most modern in the world. No, the taxi driver admitted, he didn't know anything about engineering. But he still didn't feel the foundation had been put in right.

Gossip touches all people. No name is too high or too low for its stain. It concerns itself with every president's health — and every movie star's habits.

The headquarters for gossip today are the night club, the barroom, the cocktail party, the bridge table, the soda fountain, the country club, the beauty parlor the backyard fence and the office water cooler.

THE OFFICE GOSSIP IS the affliction of the business world. There is no defense against him. He comes around and says, "Don't you think Jones is stupid?"

"I wouldn't say that, but he hasn't set the world on fire," you answer genially.

And off lopes the gossip to tell Jones:

"Well, I know one guy that don't think you'll ever set the world on fire."

And what can you do about it? In the Army they have a healthy Army term for baseless gossip—"latrine rumors." The Navy boys dismiss it as "scuttlebutt."

But we need a truth serum to detect gossip and a penalty to punish it. When a fellow bayed some priceless bit of misinformation down your neck, you could grab his arm and rub some truth serum on it. If it turned red, you could believe him. If it turned green, you could dismiss him as a gossip.

HOW TO PUNISH HIM? The old Anglo-Saxons tied gossips to ducking stools and immersed them a few times to cool off their hot rumors. The Puritans locked them in the stocks and ridiculed them.

Before Columbus came the Quimbaya Indians of Colombia had a golden gag for gossips. It was a nose ring to which was attached a large golden flange, hung with tiny bells that dangled below the chin. Every time the gossip even whispered, the bells jangled the warning.

But if these gags ever came into use again women might flaunt them as a new style feature. And if we gagged every beauty parlor gossip with gold, Fort Knox would be emptied. Science will have to develop that anti-gossip truth serum.

Who Are the Arabs?

IT IS impossible to list all the groups covered by the single word "Arab" every time it is used to designate opposition to the new Jewish state in Palestine.

This is giving rise to a notion that the Arabs somehow have resolved their differences and now are a nationality group in the Holy Land. That impression is as erroneous as the one given during World War II by use of the words "Axis" and "Allies." The fact that such words were made to suffice for divergent nationalities and interests led a great many persons to think there was unity where in fact there was disunity.

Until formation of the Arab League in 1945 there was not even the illusion of Arabian unity. Today the illusion exists, but without much foundation. The Arab League represents Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Syria, Lebanon, Iraq, Yemen, and Trans-Jordan. All except the last are members of the United Nations. They represent perhaps 30,000,000 persons as a group, but the group is held together shakily by little more than the ambitions of the feudal rulers who dominate the league.

In short, when the news refers to "Arab" troops in Palestine, it is important to remember two things:

1. The troops in Palestine are there on the orders of one or more of seven governments.

2. All troops in Palestine, other than those which are native to that territory, are taking part in an invasion clearly contrary to the spirit and letter of the United Nations charter, subscribed to by all but one of the member governments of the Arab league.

Questionable Relatives

MICHIGAN'S Representative Crawford, who has called on all federal officials with "Red relatives" to quit their posts, seems to have bitten off a large order. The case of John C. Virden, which started the ruckus, is simpler than most of the cases likely to come to attention.

Virden has resigned his position in the department of commerce because his daughter operates a teletype machine in Tass, the Russian news agency. He has done this despite the fact he and his daughter are estranged over her ideological views.

Not all federal employes with questionable relatives can afford to resign merely to relieve the heads of their department of possible embarrassment. And from a broad point of view, they shouldn't be expected to resign. In a country that stresses the importance and dignity of the individual there is no excuse for unloading suspicion on citizens who may have done no wrong. That was Hitler's technique for persecuting the Jews. It is the Russian technique for holding families responsible for the misdeeds of their members.

Perhaps all of Representative Crawford's relatives are blameless, but if one of them turned Red, through no fault of his, would he feel called upon to resign his seat in the house of representatives?

Point of Principle

SENATOR TAFT has been making it plain in his remarks about militarism that he is one of the first to reach a conclusion about a rising issue in national affairs.

It is the issue of civilian vs. military dominance. Senator Taft is opposed to military dominance for the same reason that he is opposed to dominance by federal authority of any other kind. He distrusts government by edict and regulation. Free enterprise is a point of principle that cannot be compromised, in his view.

Militarism is a present danger in the United States. It must not be confused with adequate national defense, which is another matter. Militarism is more frequently an evidence of weakness than of strength. It is that condition of society in which it seems natural for the military mind to dominate all decisions, a sure sign of impending disaster. The military mind has nothing to offer but militarism, which is fatal.

Senator Taft has sensed the danger of militarism in the United States. He is making an issue of it. It's a safe bet that he will make a major issue of it if he sees a growing danger to civilian initiative and security. The United States wants adequate defense—but adequate defense does not mean military domination of the nation. That would be the least adequate defense the United States could have.

Scanning the Record

By George E. Sokolsky

A Definition of Communism.

I LISTENED recently to some definitions of communism which failed to include many characteristics of the Marxian philosophy. After all, more than 200,000,000 persons live under this way and we need to understand it. Definitions are most difficult when they are short, for the more we generalize, the less specific is the description. After all, Karl Marx wrote three enormous volumes, "Das Kapital," to explain a few phases of his program.

SOKOLSKY

Yet, I venture to give here a fairly short definition which is not so generalized as to be out of focus nor so involved as to be difficult to understand. Here it is:

Communism is a social, political and economic creed, originally devised by Karl Marx, since amended by Lenin and Stalin and by actual practice, which holds that a single political party shall control not only the government but the means of production and distribution, the fixed and liquid capital, and with it the lives and activities of all the inhabitants in the interest of the state. The oligarchy in control of that one party therefore controls the persons, minds, and actions of all under them, who virtually live in slavery. The objective of this system is its self-destruction at such a time as the oligarchs believe it is safe to eliminate all forms of force from human society.

This definition, however, fails to explain why this creed persists and why it has such a fanatical driving appeal for so many persons, particularly among intellectuals. To understand that it is necessary to move away from the economic and political sides of communism, which are inevitable results of the "theology" of Marxism. And that "theology" is, like Christianity, based upon the primary question of how man came into existence.

Difference in Theology

Judaism, Christianity and Islam accept the doctrine that man is a special creation of God, differing from all else in nature by the possession of will and choice and the dignity of personality. Because of that, man enjoys inalienable rights which are his at birth—as the grace of God. Out of this concept of man, he evolved a series of ideals of living which run through the Old and New Testaments.

In Genesis, this concept of man is stated:

"So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created He him: male and female created He them . . ."

This concept of man has often been opposed by other ideas, particularly in recent years, by the scientifically-minded, who regard man as a biologic creature, who, by chance, happened to turn out to be different from other creatures.

Once it is accepted that life is purposeless, that man has no existence except as he is controlled by his environment, then it is correct to assume that those who make and control the environment establish the nature of man. This concept eliminates all morals, substituting for them only the law of necessity—that is, that whatever is necessary is right. And who determines what is necessary?

A Personal Matter

Under any moral system, each individual decides that for himself, assuming responsibility for his personal choice and conduct. Under communism, it is the oligarchs, operating a monopolistic political party, who decide what is, at a given moment, necessary, and changing their decisions as necessity dictates.

Lecomte Du Nouy in his magnificant study, makes this observation:

". . . The old-fashioned materialist who is honestly convinced that human life is without a cause and without a goal, that man is an irresponsible particle of matter engulfed in a maelstrom of purposeless forces, reminds us of the delightful remark made by a brilliant philosopher, Whitehead: ". . . Scientists who spend their life with the purpose of proving that it is purposeless constitute an interesting subject of study'."

Once we accept the purely materialistic concept of man, everything else fits into place. Slavery becomes acceptable if the oligarchs regard that as temporarily (how long in history is temporary?) necessary. Even the destruction of human beings becomes valid as the smashing of roaches in a kitchen is valid because of necessity.

To understand communism and its forces, it is wise to understand the struggle between God and the devil, discussed so immortally in Job and in Goethe's "Faust."

Vandenberg and Dewey

By Walter Lippmann

OF THE three active contenders for the nomination none will come to the convention having proved himself to be the decided choice of the great majority of the Republican voters. The choice will have to be made by an agreement among the leading delegates and party managers.

They will begin with certain facts which are now clearly established. One is that Mr. Stassen, though he has considerable popular strength, has nothing like the popular strength needed to override the determined opposition of Taft and Dewey and of a very large part of the Republican organization. Mr. Stassen's campaign has not been successful.

LIPPMANN

He has estranged the party managers without winning the support of more than a part of the rank and file. As a result he cannot be nominated as president, almost certainly not even for vice president, and his real problem today is to keep his place among the Republican leaders who will have to be considered in the formation of a Republican administration.

A second fact is that Mr. Taft, though he has grown greatly in reputation and public esteem and, therefore in personal influence, could not—even if nominated—be elected without a bitter and doubtful campaign. Against him Mr. Truman would have a good fighting chance, and, moreover, it is quite conceivable that Gen. Eisenhower might be persuaded to accept the Democratic nomination to run against him.

A third fact is that Mr. Dewey, while a much stronger candidate than Mr. Taft or Mr. Stassen, could not get the wholehearted support of all factions of the party, and would surely rouse the Democrats to a spirited campaign. His record in foreign affairs is not yet good enough to win him the confidence of the two million or more Republicans, largely conservative in domestic politics, who voted for Roosevelt in 1944.

Moreover, having been three times an active candidate for the nomination, he has made enemies as well as friends. The Stassen Dewey relationship is one of those personal and factional feuds which are not easily healed. Yet Mr. Stassen is not only himself young, energetic and ambitious but his active supporters are very active men. They are in fact a large part of the new generation of Republicans. The party must have them if it is to govern the country effectively. But they could not now be brought easily into an administration led by Gov. Dewey.

Vandenberg

The case for Vandenberg is, subject to one consideration—that of his running mate—unusually compelling. Senator Vandenberg is not a "dark horse." There is nothing dark about him, he is the best known and most eminent statesman of his party. He is not only the man who divides the Republicans the least but he is the man who can most surely unite them.

There are some differences between Taft and Vandenberg. But there can be no quarrel between them, and there would be no question that Taft would emerge as the leader of the party in Congress. There is no feud with Stassen, who has made it abundantly clear that Vandenberg is his first choice, once he has to accept the fact that he himself cannot be nominated.

With Dewey there is a close affinity. The active supporters of Vandenberg could accept Dewey and be satisfied. The active supporters of Dewey could support Vandenberg without qualms and with much enthusiasm.

Finally, and it is no small matter, Vandenberg is for all practical purposes invulnerable to attack by the Democrats. For Mr. Truman can make no serious campaign against the man who has carried through Congress all the great measures on which Mr. Truman's claim to election would have to rest. There would be no problem for Gen. Eisenhower to consider, and it is a fair assumption that if he took any public position, it would be in support of Vandenberg.

For the whole case for Vandenberg's nomination will be undermined if the convention does not make a wise decision on the vice presidency. Owing to his age Senator Vandenberg could not be asked or expected to serve for two terms. Therefore, unless the candidate for vice president is a man entirely competent to be president and known to be devoted to a continuation of the general lines of policy in a Vandenberg administration, the stability of the government will be jeopardized. In a time when the country and the world needs to be certain about the continuity of American policy, everything will be subject to accident and to acts of God.

It seems plain enough that all these risks would be avoided if the convention were to nominate, indeed to draft Gov. Dewey himself for the vice presidential nomination for then it will have nominated two men each qualified in his own right to be president. It will have joined with Vandenberg, whose greatest strength is that he has acquired moral wisdom and disinterestedness and an understanding of the great imponderables, a man who is without question the ablest executive administrator of this generation.

If he accepted the nomination for vice president with Vandenberg, their election would be certain. His opportunity for public service would be immense. His succession to the presidency, four years hence would be in the highest degree probable.

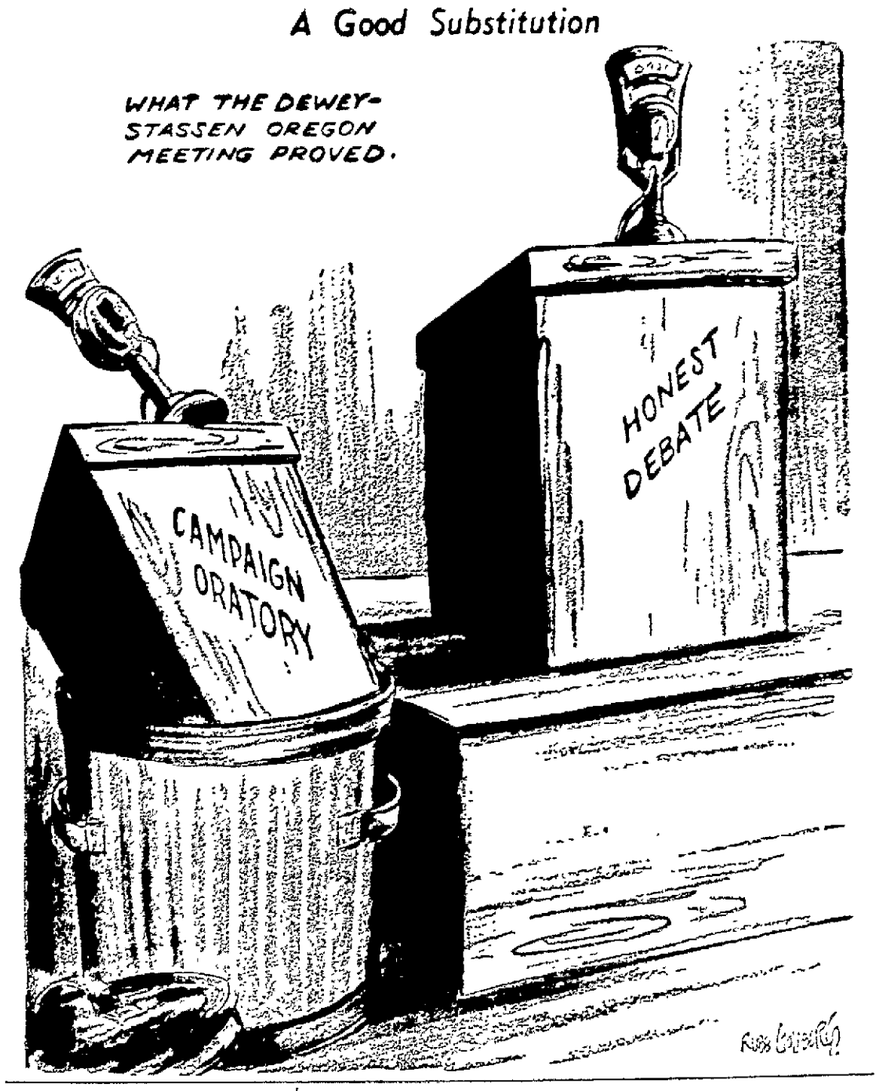
A Good Substitution



From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Wednesday, May 25, 1938.

Senator Pope, Democrat of Idaho, proposed that congress pay for an additional $212,000,000 in farm benefits by enacting processing taxes early in 1939.

Jack Hecker, 14-year-old student at Linn school north of Marion narrowly escaped death when he was caught in a tree against a 2,200-volt electrical power line near the school for between 15 and 20 minutes.

Mrs. Agnes Truka was elected president at a meeting of Woman's Auxiliary No. 179, to Marion Typographical Union No. 675, at the home of Misses Geneva and Sarah Bell on South State street.

Mrs. Lorah Shurz of Windsor street was hostess for a meeting of the Cueire club. Mrs. George Fies was elected president, Mrs. F. C. McCammon, vice president and Mrs. John Luvisi, secretary-treasurer.

Commencement exercises were held at the Pleasant Centralized school. Receiving diplomas were Reta Clay, Ruthella Cowgill, Elmer Ferriman, Alice Green, June Green, Alice Herr, Denver Holliday, Marie Hoopman, Violet Lingrel, Dorothy McClure, Bernice Pfirsch, Twila Rice, Josephine Seiter, Barbara Thomas, Alice Vance, Donna Whiteman and Minnie Zachman.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Friday, May 25, 1928.

It was announced that on the outcome of the trial of Edward F. Sharpless, set for the following Monday, probably rested the fate of Sunday motion picture shows in Marion. In the first trial on a charge of violating state laws relating to operation of Sunday shows there was a jury deadlock with the final vote reported to be 7 to 5 for acquittal.

Remodeling of the Oakland theater was completed and the new proprietor, Reuben Mason of Celina, who had leased the property for 10 years, said he expected to provide the best motion picture entertainment available.

Bert Crow of Chicago, brother of Postmaster French Crow, was visiting friends and relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Winch of East Center street returned from their cottage at Rye Beach where they had spent the week.

Mrs. E. O. Uncapher was hostess to the Art club at its last meeting of the year in her home on East Center street. An honor guest was Miss Mary K. Barnhart, who was to take a trip abroad during the summer.

John B. Campbell, 83, died at his home in Morral.

Misses Marjorie Tobin and Margaret Moloney contributed several piano numbers for entertainment of Octo Allegro bridge club when it met with Miss Margaret Brady at her home on North Main street.

The Boeing Strike

By Raymond Moley

THE current strike at the Seattle plant of the Boeing Airplane company, now in its fifth week, has national significance on two counts. First, it has halted vital defense operations and, second, it involves the integrity of a basic principle of the Taft-Hartley act. In addition, there is a question of elementary justice to the company and to the city of Seattle.

The company has a backlog of orders amounting to $300,000,000 from the government and from private companies. As a part of the government's armament program, Boeing is turning out the B-50, which is a super edition of the famous B-29. It is also producing the C-97 Stratofreighter, which is an Army cargo and troop transport. Furthermore, there is the XB-47 jet bomber, an incredible jet and rocket dreadnaught. On the civil side is the immense Stratocruiser.

MOLEY

The manufacture of these planes at the Seattle plant has virtually reached a standstill. The origins of the trouble go back more than a year. At that time, the Aeronautical Mechanics' Union was operating under a wartime contract with the company. That contract had a no-strike clause. Negotiation with the company for a new contract began early last year.

Offer Rejected

The company offered 10 cents an hour pay increase and asked for a modification of a particularly restrictive seniority rule which, the company asserted, prevented the transfer of employes and hampered the direction of the working force. The union rejected the offer and voted to strike at that time. The parent Machinists' Union refused permission to the local to strike, and work went on under the old contract.

In January of this year, after negotiations had been reopened, the company offered a 15-cent increase. The union demanded 35 cents and other concessions. Also, it took the position that it would not arbitrate, under the contract provision that the old contract should stay in effect until a new contract was agreed upon. When the company refused this ultimatum, the local called a strike. No membership vote was taken on this strike order by the union officials. They held that the year-old strike vote held, despite the fact that two-thirds of the present 15,000 union employes did not work for the company a year ago.

Change in Situation

The old strike vote, moreover, was not taken on the basis of the company's latest offer. At that point, the Taft-Hartley act came into the picture. Boeing holds that no 60-day notice was given, as that act requires. The Taft-Hartley law states that when this provision is violated the strikers shall lose their status as employes for the purpose of collective bargaining. The company therefore feels that it has no right under the law to engage in collective bargaining with the union and it has notified the government of that position. Meanwhile, the union has filed charges with the NLRB. The company has secured an injunction from the federal court against mass picketing.

This is the first strike the Boeing people have had in their 32 years of life. Competitively, they were at a disadvantage at the end of the war because they were at that time almost exclusively engaged in manufacturing the B-29. They were compelled when work stopped on that war model to take time out to develop new models for peacetime production.

In Vital Spot

The plant at Seattle labors under some difficulties because of its strategic position. It is regarded as a vital industry at the very frontier in the event of a war with Russia. Increasing diversion of its work to other cities might be anticipated. This is where the concern of the city of Seattle comes in. Clearly, the city would suffer from such diversion. Moreover, if the red flag of industrial trouble is raised, the effect would be to keep new industry from moving to the Pacific northwest. The region as well as the nation is deeply interested in this critical test of the efforts of congress to bring order into industrial relations.

CROSSTOWN By Roland Coe

"I get fifty cents a week allowance—but, under the system of ten-cent fines at our house for doin' stuff I shouldn't, my Dad gets it back before I can spend it."

T.B. Vaccine

Physicians attending the International Congress on Tropical Medicine heard Dr. Joseph D. Aronson of the University of Pennsylvania describe favorable results of experiments to check tuberculosis with a vaccine.

The vaccine was introduced almost 25 years ago by two French scientists, Calmette and Guerin. It consists of weakened baccilli that cause tuberculosis in cattle. It was opposed at the time, but Dr. Aronson said it has been used successfully since 1935 on the Pima Indian reservation in Oklahoma.

The vaccine was given to more than 1,500 Indians while a similar group was left untreated. The two groups were examined each year by chest X-rays and tuberculin tests. The death rate from tuberculosis was nine times as high in the unvaccinated group. The rate of illness was about three times as high. Among 123 Indian babies vaccinated there was not a single death from tuberculosis during eight years of continuous observation.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

The Women Talk a Revolt

Must the women of America dress to look part awning, part inverted tepee and part fan dancer slave? The question is being raised, and the women themselves. From what this department hears the women's dress designers have at last succeeded in making the female look turn, or nearly so. The current modes are not doing the gals any good pictorially and they know it.

PHILLIPS

Those long, loose, bell-bottom skirts not only make it difficult for a woman to look thin; they make it impossible for a thin one not to look fat. And unless the girls are just talking to hear themselves talk a revolt against resembling a wigwam with a head and neck is on.

Any dress shop will tell you the women are mad clear through. "I am not a Mexican ballerina, a half opened umbrella or a poster of a colonial ball" insisted the missus the other day. "And I resent a conspiracy to make me look like a combination of all three. I have lived on lettuce and other rabbit food for a year to get fairly slender, and look what the garment industry does!"

"You women have yourselves to blame," we said. "Your slavish surrender to whatever the erratic style czars decree has been uninterrupted down thrpugh the years. Why don't you rise and kick them in the teeth by a simple refusal to toe the line? Your wardrobe is full of the recently outlawed models. This is a time for sense, thrift, and . . ."

"There you go on that thrift stuff again! I am discussing styles, not economics. And I am up against smart changes in modes. What makes me boil is the abrupt switch from clothes in which a woman could look pretty good, as in 16, to these 1947 get-ups which make almost any woman look as if she was understudying a free balloon."

"I am with you, my sweet," we insisted. "The 1948 modes do for a woman what sailor pants do for a man."

"In the past a woman could always take something from her leftover dresses in a pinch like this and weather the tide, but you can't make a 1947 dress look like a forty-eight unless it is for New Orleans, Mardi Gras purposes," she replied sadly.

"I have seen some women who, wearing a new look thing could enter a Mardi Gras as a decorated float," we said.

"Don't look at me," snapped the missus. "The simple truth is that few outside of this year's high school classes can blossom forth in modern fashion without resembling Whistler's Mother or Barbara Freitchie both wrongside up and very unhappy."

"That one you had sent home yesterday was not bad," we suggested, lying likell.

"Not if I wanted something to haunt the D.A.R. meeting," she replied.

She put on her hat and started for the door. "Where are you going," we asked.

"To the United Nations! The matter belongs on their agenda. And what's more no candidate for president gets my vote who doesn't come out with planks to compel dress designers to register, take an oath they are not making and swear they are not undercover agents for Old Mother Hubbard, and stop racketeering in feminine variety."

From those training-camp pictures of Joe Louis we can't help wondering whether he intends to meet Walcott with a punch or with a selection from Old Man River.

Cotton Corners

By TRUMAN TWILL

Dear Nephew: Well, it's commencement time again. The mills of education have ground out their annual production, ranging from very poor to very good.

The high quality students will keep on learning, some of them in classrooms, some on the job. The fair-to-middling ones also will keep on learning, whether or not they go to school. The rest, unfortunately, having learned next to nothing while in school, will continue to learn nothing out of school. They are the toughest problem we have in our kind of a society. We can figure out a way to handle almost everything except ignorance. It's one of the two things that might pile us up on the rocks.

The other thing, which I always think about at commencement time, is the danger of educated fools. There doesn't seem to be any connection between ability to learn and ability to think. Some of the smartest cookies I've known in my long experience were half-baked characters who could no more be trusted with an important decision than rabbits.

Maybe they could handle figures like wizards or knew all there was to know about chemistry, physics, economics and so on, yet still didn't know enough to come in out of the rain. In any given set of circumstances they couldn't be depended on to make a mess of things. Worse yet, some of them had only one idea of what to do with their knowledge, which was to use it to hurt someone.

Don't ask me what can be done about this because I don't think anything can be done about it. We have to take our chances and pray that everything will come out better in the long run than it threatens to; it usually has. The only thing that saves us is the fact that one honest smart individual usually can offset the harm done by maybe 100 smart ones with the morals of weasels. It's a struggle, but the honest ones usually win in the long run.

As usual, kids have been soliciting my advice about whether or not they should go to college and I've been giving them the only answer I know. I tell them that if they can go to college they'd be crazy if they didn't, not because there's any magic in college but because there's magic in education. Going to college is an easier way to get it than trying to get it on the job. The job demands too much time and effort. Getting an education while doing something else is no cinch. I warn them not to think they can get educated by merely going to college, because it's not fool-proof. It's just a means of learning—an easier one than learning while making a living.

Ultimately, education comes out even, as far as I can see. The smart people learn. The dumb ones don't. We couldn't improve the dumb ones any by sending them to college. The most we can hope to do is insist on making them learn a certain amount of elementary schooling so they can read what it says on the ballot even if they can't understand what it means.

Tell your offspring the latchstring is out as soon as school is over. I will do my best to fill in the gaps of practical education that the school ma'ams can't do anything about because most of them, bless their souls, don't even know what the gaps are. I can't teach grammar but I can teach a sprout how to catch river carp and keep a scorecard at a ball game. Regards to the family.

Big Man, What Now?

Alabama's Gov. Folsom has withdrawn as a candidate for president.

Not even Harry Truman can find any comfort in that.

Folsom was Truman's biggest competitor, but only physically.

Incidentally, Big Jim ought not to have found it difficult to kiss the nomination good-bye ...not with all the experience he's had.

One finds it difficult to understand the nation's apathy toward Folsom, what with him literally head and shoulders above the other candidates. Maybe it stemmed from a realization that, if we sent Big Jim to the White House, we'd have to raise the ceiling on that balcony.

Big Jim was offering as a favorite son until he found out he wasn't. If Folsom does any running this summer, it will be not for office out from process servers.

Alabama's governor has quite a reputation as a lady's man. But, if he thinks women are fickle, just wait until he finds out about voters.

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

I heard a quick release of breath from everyone in the room at Faith's artful question, and did not hesitate a second in answering her.

"No, you will not have to go to nursery school from now until you go to the farmhouse for the party," I told her.

"Do you know?" Harry Underwood asked, with apparent carelessness, "I've often wondered what a time bomb in the Grand Central Station would do."

"Don't you know?" Faith asked incredulously. "It would blow it all to pieces."

"Yes, I guess it would," the big man said with apparent thoughtfulness, and his wife frowned at him.

"You're interrupting Madge's story," she said. "She was going to tell Faith what's going to be done at the party."

"Yes, Mummy, what?" Faith asked eagerly, coming from the temporary switch to the main track again. "Are we going to have lots of eats?"

"Wonderful eats," I told her truthfully, visualizing the delicacies which Olga even now must be planning for her daughter's camouflaged secret wedding.

"But will there be lots of them?" Faith persisted, "so I can have all I want?"

"Yes, there will be enough for everybody," I told her.

"And," she added hopefully, "nobody will say, 'Now, you mustn't make yourself sick, child!'"

Her voice held such faithful imitation of the invariable caution given to children, that I had trouble in answering her, the while I envied the others, who, not facing her did not have to keep back their grins of delighted amusement.

"I think Faith," I said, with a tingle of severity in my tone, "that you are old enough now to judge for yourself whether or not you are eating too much."

"Oh, I guess I am," she retorted airily, "but you know, Mummy," she added in a confidential tone that nearly choked me again, "sometimes eats at a party are so scrumptious that it's worth being sick for a day or two afterward just to cram down all you want."

"That's a dangerous side track to which you've switched your engine, Faith," her father advised. "I'd get off it quickly, or, the first thing you know, you'll have a guard set over you at the party to see that you don't stuff down too many goodies."

I tossed him a grateful glance as Faith giggled.

"I guess you're right, Daddy," she told him. "Mummy's beginning to get thoughts in her eyes."

"You'd better not let them be anything but 'beginnings,'" he told her. "Why don't you ask her about Don Quixote and the wedding?"

I would have been furious at him for the reference to something she apparently had sidetracked, if I had not realized that in reality he was helping me out. Faith never forgets a detail of anything. She would have remembered the "wedding"—the word she had overheard, sooner or later, and I might as well get on with my job of telling her about it.

"I will," she said, "right away." Then she turned her limpid eyes up to mine.

"It can't be a real wedding," she mused, "or Don Kee-o-ti wouldn't be in it."

"You'll find when you read about him, that he's very much alive in the minds of people who love him," I told her.

"Oh, I know, like the folks in 'Black Beauty' and the 'Little Colonel' and 'The Silver Skates,'" Some [illegible] of the Misses Dove produced a fourth type of [illegible] "among her favorite ladies but on that the electors [illegible] but the four were all stories. You had to listen hard to hear the mellow, fine-car purr of that heavenly, made-for-Mercury motor. You had to hear it to believe that this 8-cylinder, V-type motor was not in a car far beyond Mercury's price class.

You saw something exciting!
An all-new kind of car beauty—longer, lower, wider—with a poised graceful silhouette. It was not a "new model" looking pretty much like last year's with its face lifted. You saw the ALL-NEW Mercury in a choice of superb body styles—including the new Six-passenger Coupe and Six-passenger Convertible.

You were happily married to the steering wheel!
You felt so safe, so secure, because Mercury didn't "wind-wander" or "over-steer." Mercury took the curves with ease. Its perfect balance, the way it hugged the road, and its fat new super-balloon tires gave you a ride that was smooth as satin.

You sat on a flying easy chair with a luxurious "comfort-zone" seat cushioning you. You made your own "weather" inside the car—with something they called "Fingertip Weather Control." A controlled flow of fresh, filtered air—no fog on the windshield—no opening to drip water on your stockings. That was comfort you'd dreamed about. That was all-new. That was Mercury!

You tiptoed into a new world of driving pleasure!
You knew thrills that—until this year—came only to the owners of the costliest cars. You learned about big new brakes that bring you to a swift, sure, yet gentle stop . . . about all-new beauty, comfort, performance . . . about how really new a car can be! That's Mercury. 1949 Mercury, the ALL-NEW Mercury!

Now you know how new a car can be!

OHIO-L. ERIE CANAL DREAMS BRIGHTEN

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, May 25—Dreams of a Lake Erie-Ohio River canal were brighter today following approval of a review report by the Ohio river division engineer.

However, actual construction of the 104-mile long canal is far in the future, if at all.

Canal projects linking Lake Erie and Ohio have been considered since 1912.

The latest proposed canal has an estimated first cost of $439,000,000, of which approximately $23,000,000 is to be supplied by local interests.

As approved by the engineer yesterday, the report sets the canal's course—along the Beaver and Mahoning rivers on the south slopes and the grand basin on the north—from Rochester, Pa., to Beaver Falls, Pa., and then to Newcastle, Pa., and Youngstown, O.

From Youngstown the canal would touch Niles, Warren, Farmington and Jefferson before swinging to Ashtabula. A cut between the Mahoning and grand basin would permit access from the Mahoning to the north slope.

Other provisions include a modern harbor suitable for lake and river vessels immediately west of Ashtabula harbor and a dam near Harpersfield, O., to provide a navigable reservoir in the grand basin.

The report proposes the canal be a minimum of 226 feet wide at the bottom.

One of the first Lake Erie-Ohio river canal proposals would have placed the canal along Ohio's western border. A Scioto-Sandusky canal also was proposed, connecting the lake and the Ohio along the Scioto and Sandusky rivers.

In Plain Words By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

THIS is a boom time for most of the country. But it's a time of bust for a lot of people too old to work.

President Truman yesterday asked congress to do a number of things about increasing social security benefits.

But congress, busy with other things, is unlikely to do much if anything about Mr. Truman's request.

There is room here to go into only those social security benefits which affect retired workers and their dependents.

James Marlow

In 1935 congress decided workers should get some protection when they became too old to work, and so should their dependents if the worker died.

That protection could be in the form of charity, or it could be insurance—old age insurance if a worker retired and lived, survivors' insurance for his family if he died. Congress decided on insurance.

So in that year, 1935, congress passed the social security act. It went into effect in 1937. This has been happening ever since.

An employe is taxed one per cent up to $3,000 of his pay a year. And an employer is taxed one per cent up to $3,000 of each of his employes' pay a year.

That money goes into the social security, old age and survivors' insurance fund. There is now about $9,500,000,000 in that fund. Payments from the fund are running about $466,000,000 a year.

To let the fund get built up, no one was allowed to start collecting insurance from it until 1940.

BUT HOW MUCH should a retired worker be able to draw as old age insurance? Congress decided that one back in 1939. This is it:

The most a retired worker can collect is $44.80 a month, the least is $10. The amount he collects depends upon how much tax he's paid into the fund.

But not every worker is "covered" by the insurance. In some kinds of work—like farming—the workers are not covered, so neither they nor their employers pay a tax. Which means such a worker can't get any old age insurance.

But most workers are covered and pay the tax—about 30,000,000 of them. About 20,000,000 are not covered.

WHO GETS THE INSURANCE?

It goes like this for a covered worker:

1. Retired workers, men and women who have reached 65.

2. An additional monthly benefit for a retired worker's wife, if she is 65, and or his unmarried children under 18.

If the worker under or over 65 dies, monthly benefit go to:

1. His widow if she's 65 or over.

2. His widow of any age if she has dependent children under 18 in her care.

3. Unmarried children under 18.

4. His parents if they were chiefly dependent on him and he left no widow or children.

ABOUT 2,054,000 men, women and children are now receiving benefits under this old age and survivors' insurance program. That number is divided as follows:

Retired workers over 65—950,000; wives, 65 or over, of retired workers—285,000; widows over 65—175,000; widows under 65 with dependent children—138,000; dependent children—325,000.

But President Truman pointed out that the maximum retirement insurance — $44.80 — was fixed back in 1939 when living costs were 70 percent lower than they are now.

Mr. Truman emphasized that even so the average monthly payment to a retired worker now is not $44.80 a month but only $25.00. (That's because of the low salary he made and therefore the low tax he paid).

Since living costs have risen about 70 per cent since 1939, the 1939 dollar now is worth only about 58 cents. So that average $25 monthly insurance check the worker receives now has shrunk to $14.50 in 1939 terms.

Mr. Truman asked congress to increase the social security payments and to bring under the coverage of social security the 20,000,000 people now uncovered.

Those 20,000,000 include farmworkers, farmers, self-employed people, domestic servants and people working for non-profit organizations like the Red Cross.

JUDGE IS SPEAKER AT LIONS MEETING

Program Arranged by Life Underwriters Association.

Judge Cloys P. McClelland of Columbus, probate judge of Franklin county, spoke to members of the Marion Lions club on the subject, "What Becomes of One's Property When He Dies," at the club's weekly luncheon meeting Monday at Hotel Harding. Guests were members of the Marion county chapter of the National Life Insurance Underwriters Association. The program was arranged by Orville Tobin, president of the local association chapter.

Judge McClelland, who has served as probate judge in Franklin county since 1931, described the procedure of the statutory laws when a will has been made and also when no will has been left by the deceased person. He gave several examples of actual cases which he has had in his work. Judge McClelland said his advice in making or not making a will is that if the law will take care of an estate the way the person would desire, do not make a will, but if the law does not take care of an estate the way in which the person desires it, have a good lawyer make up a proper will.

Judge McClelland was a life insurance salesman for eight and a half years before going into law practice.

He edited the third edition of a book for the use of probate judges and officials, "The Addams and Hosford Ohio Probate Practice and Procedure."

Four new members, Robert Garster, Robert Ruth, Thomas Sonnanstine and Fred Raab, were inducted in a ceremony in charge of Probate and Juvenile Judge Edward J. Ruzzo. As a part of the induction ceremony, Horace Kerr of Columbus, who has been associated with Lionism 25 years and instigated the first charter for the Marion Lions club, gave a short talk directed to the four new members. Mr. Kerr is a past president of the Columbus Lions club, a past director of Lions International, and a past president of the bar association in Columbus.

Jack Boyd of Marion was a guest of the club.

TRUMAN OK'S FATHER OF TASS EMPLOYE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 25—President Truman today came to the defense of John C Virden who resigned as a top commerce department official after it was disclosed his daughter is working for Tass, the Russian news agency.

"I believe in you—my faith in your loyalty is unshaken," Mr. Truman told Virden in a letter.

Virden, a Cleveland, O., industrialist, turned in his resignation last week after Rep. Crawford (R-Mich) asked Secretary of Commerce Sawyer to drop him as head of the department's office of industry cooperation.

Virden said he had "completely broken" with his 22-year-old daughter Euphemia, when she took a job as teletype operator at the Tass bureau here last January. He said he has not communicated with her since, but defended her as a "girl of high ideal" who "is simply being exploited."

Sawyer defended Virden as a man "vigorously opposed" to communism. So did Rep. Bender (R-Ohio) who urged Sawyer to reject Virden's resignation.

Superior Wheat Strain Developed at Wooster

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, May 25—Ohio State university's experiment station at Wooster has developed a new strain of hybrid wheat which averages 46 bushels per acre, the American Association of Cereal Chemists was told yesterday.

Dr. L. L Rummel, dean of OSU's college of agriculture, told the opening of the AACC convention the new hybrid wheat was the culmination of 50 years of effort on the part of plant breeders to improve wheat.

The new variety, which has not been named, has boosted the average yield 10 bushels above the yield 50 years ago, Dr. Rummel said. The wheat is related to the Thorne variety which produces an average of 43 bushels an acre.

TRUMAN WANTS BILL PASSED

Asks Federal Aid in Education and Minimum Wage of 75 Cents an Hour.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 25—President Truman today asked Democratic congressional leaders to press for passage at this congress session of federal aid to education and a minimum wage boost to 75 cents an hour.

The President's request was made at a White House conference lasting more than an hour.

The senate has passed legislation for $300,000,000 annual federal aid to the states for schools. The house has not acted.

There has been no action in either senate or house on minimum wage legislation. The present wage-hour law fixes the minimum wage at 40 cents an hour for workers who come under the law's coverage.

Sen. Lucas of Illinois and Representative McCormack of Massachusetts, assistant Democratic leaders in the senate and house respectively, told reporters after the White House meeting that the President "is tremendously interested in legislation raising the minimum wage from 40 to 75 cents."

Lucas said it was the opinion of most of the legislators at the meeting that it will be rather difficult to get the minimum wage legislation passed at this session since "we Democrats are in the minority."

Lucas said the education measure is "bottled up in a house committee."

COUNCIL

have gone for administration of the ordinance.

Attorney Wiedemann declared that council in passing such an ordinance would be setting a dangerous precedent for local revenue-seeking measures in the future. "If such a precedent is now established, what would prevent a future city council from extending the tax to other items of recreational or luxury nature," he said. "We are being taxed heavily as it is. Why open the door to further taxation."

Basis of Attack

Attorney Kelly said he represented approximately 30 members of the Marion Restaurant association who opposed passage of the measure. He attacked the issue on the basis that it was discriminatory, it taxed one particular group of individuals without taxing others. He pointed out that the city admissions tax on entertainment where admissions were charged was only three per cent, yet the proposed legislation on pinball machines and juke boxes of which there are an estimated 400 or more in the city would charge 10 per cent not on net profits but on gross receipts before profits. Kelly also said the restaurant owners objected to the idea of making their profits from machines a matter of public record.

Council, apparently deciding to settle the issue, suspended rules to allow final reading of the measure, the vote found councilmen opposed to its passage straight down the line.

Several association members and individuals having machines in their establishments indicated privately that they had no objection to paying a licensing fee on their machines but would not favor a direct tax of 10 per cent.

It was indicated unofficially that a revised ordinance licensing these amusement devices but without the direct tax, may be offered council as a substitute measure.

Deny Damage Claim

Council while in the mood for action brought to an abrupt halt the precedent established in recent months of paying liberal damage claims filed by persons whose vehicles have been damaged in striking holes in city pavement

Council refused to authorize settlement of a claim for $191 filed by Corea Tubbs of 395 Scranton street Tubbs, through Walter Moore, his attorney, claimed his motorcycle struck a hole in South Prospect street, damaging the cycle and painfully injuring the claimant.

Despite the fact that Moore said he was prepared to take the claim to common pleas court, council refused to budge, voting down the resolution to settle for the amount asked, six to three. Moore's parting remark addressed to City Solicitor John Watters was, "We'll be seeing you in court."

Further indication of the real estate boom developing in Marion was evidenced in two pieces of legislation passed by council last night.

One was the acceptance of B. R. Prichard for the Prichard First Addition to the city of Marion, confirming the dedication of 15½ acres lying south of Bellefontaine avenue and west of Windsor street The tract to be opened for home building, comprises 87 lots along extensions of Blaine avenue south and Olney avenue south to an intersection with Duluth avenue extended west. A block of 12 additional lots facing Bellefontaine avenue but still in the development had previously been accepted.

Sewer Approved

The second was authorization given contractor Frank Postell for construction of storm water and sanitary sewers on Kenmore avenue for a group of lots lying on the west side of the avenue between Church street and Indiana avenue. Postell was permitted to install a six-inch sanitary and eight-inch storm water sewer. Installations are to be at his own expense under specifications of Tom Cathers, city engineer.

Other legislation passed shortly before midnight as council brought to a close a more than four-hour session included: Ordinance authorizing the safety-service director to advertise for bids and to contract for oiling and surface treating of city streets, alleys and parking lots; ordinance authorizing the mayor to enter into an agreement with the Erie railroad to install and use a 15-inch sewer under the railroad's tracks, south of Fies avenue; ordinance transferring $24,286.72 from the general improvement fund to the special improvement fund for the construction of the Bennett street and Fies avenue sanitary sewer; ordinance providing issuance of notes in anticipation of the special assessments on the Bennett street and Fies avenue sewer, and a resolution authorizing sale of miscellaneous scrap items valued at less than $500 and comprising property belonging to the city and no longer needed for municipal purposes.

PROBES DEATH OF GIRL AT NEWARK

By International News Service

NEWARK, May 25 — Licking county Prosecutor Brandt S. Hervey had a full-fledged investigation under way today into the killing of Betty Stevens, 17, Newark high school senior, at a Buckeye Lake park shooting gallery May 15.

The girl was shot in the abdomen when a .22 caliber target rifle discharged in the hands of her sweetheart, Richard Lehman, 20, a sailor home on leave.

Licking county Sheriff Roe Francis accepted his story that he had been firing the gun for sometime, thought it was empty and had turned to reload it when the rifle accidentally discharged.

The couple were to have been married this summer. They were visiting the park amusement area with a party of friends.

Attendants at Newark City hospital where Miss Stevens died said the girl was operated on several hours after the shooting and that shock set in. However, they said her condition appeared at one time to be slightly improved.

Miss Stevens died Sunday. Funeral services will be held tomorrow in Newark, and burial will be in Cedar Hill cemetery.

POLITICS SEEN IN TRUMAN MESSAGE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 25—President Truman touched off a Republican cry of 'politics' today with his message calling upon congress to hike social security benefits and let 20,000,000 more people share in them.

He asked that old age payments be upped by at least one-half. And to pay for the increases, the chief executive proposed that the present social security tax not only be boosted by 50 per cent next January but that it apply to an additional $1,800 of income.

Chairman Reed (D-NY) of a ways and means subcommittee drafting its own social security expansion bill told reporters:

"He is playing politics with the security program. This will not change our attitude. We are going along on a safe basis."

The subcommittee bill is not expected to propose any general increase in old age benefits. However, it may open the way for about 3,500,000 more people to take part in the program.

Chairman Knutson (R-Minn) of the full ways and means group commented: "We are all for these things the President recommends But so long as he continues to spend hundreds of millions on needless and wasteful projects congress can not do the thing it would like to."

Sen. Taft (Ohio), chairman of the senate's Republican policy committee, asserted: "The Democrats were in power for 14 years, and if they had really wanted to change the law they could have done it."

In his message to the lawmakers late yesterday, Mr. Truman said the present program is "seriously inadequate" to ease the "desperate" plight of the aged and needy in a time of inflation He urged immediate action.

Just why some persons are susceptible to the development of these growths is not known, nor does there seem to be any advantages in the preventive measures taken before or after the operation to keep the keloid from deveoping. Thus, the treatment is limited to stopping the growth or causing it to become smaller after it has been discovered. This is important, because the earlier the treatment is carried out, the more successful it will be.

If the keloid has been present for a long time and has become firm and hard, the best treatment seems to be to cut it out, if the edges of the skin can be satisfactorily brought together. If a new keloid then recurs in the area, immediate treatemnt with X-ray will usually bring satisfactory results. Sometimes, skin grafting may be necessary to cover the area from which the keloid has been removed.

The X-ray treatments are given at intervals of about three weeks, for a total of three treatments. If this does not bring satisfactory results, the treatment is repeated after a period of three months. In the usual cases, two such series of treatment are required. The amount of X-ray necessary to get rid of the keloid is, as a rule, well below the amount which would do any damage to the normal skin.

It has been noticed that keloids on the face are more resistant to treatment than those on other parts of the body.

A Weak, Run-Down Feeling Is Often A Warning

That The Red-Blood Is Getting Low

If you do not feel like your real self, do not have the urge to be up and doing, why not check-up on your blood strength? Look at the palms of your hands, your fingernails, your lips, the lobes of your ears—are they pale and off color?

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloat and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

AN OK FOR MARION

The Editor of The Star: Recently in "Letters from Our Readers" a young man wrote a letter calling Marion a backward city, saying that it would perhaps always be so. As long as this belief is prevalent, it certainly does nothing for the outlook.

About seven years ago when I came to Marion, I thought how beautifully that it is planted with lovely trees. Everywhere the friendly faces of those about me suggested an atmosphere of interest in others. On becoming acquainted, I found that in no place were there more fine people. Leaders in all fields of activity, from politics, business, music and the professions and religion were from Marion.

Now we are anticipating new school buildings, hospital and airport. Everywhere new homes are being built, new building sections are being opened up. New business building is appearing over the city. All this is an indication that Marion is no longer in the so-called "horse and buggy" class. Since such is the case, it seems timely to write a letter to the mistaken young man, who called Marion "a backward city" just recently. We are in a position to challenge that kind of thinking from now on and we expect more and more to be living in Marion, that up-to-date community where every one takes a part in its improvement; where all are interested in its leadership, its youth and the projects that will place it in its rightful class, one of the best cities in Ohio.

SEES HEALTH THREAT IN RUBBISH DUMPS

Closer Supervision in County Wanted by Sanitarian.

Fred Maxwell, county sanitarian, today called attention to a threatening menace to public health—numerous unsightly, unhealthful, and disease breeding, rubbish dumps which, he said, overflow onto county highways and pollute county streams.

Maxwell today appealed to persons living in the county's rural areas, and to private rubbish haulers to cooperate with county health authorities to assist in the elimination of the rubbish dump as a threat to public health.

Maxwell said that most of the rubbish dumps in the county are poorly located and in many instances litter the edges of both state and county highways and overflow into streams where they not only pollute the water but in many cases litter the property of others with refuse for [illegible] the banks of the stream.

Strict enforcement of rubbish hauling is not sufficient [illegible] itself to eliminate [illegible] dumping, Maxwell said, but it helps. Rigid enforcement of the rubbish hauling regulations [illegible] pledged by Maxwell Sheriff LeRoy Retterer, whose department makes the arrests for infractions of dumping regulations, pledged continued cooperation of his department in assisting the county health department to enforce existing dumping regulations, and promised a vigilant inspection of all rubbish haulers to see that required permits have been secured from the health department.

The only permanent solution to the present situation as seen by Maxwell lies in the hands of village councils throughout the county. He believes that each village council will purchase suitable lands for use as dumping grounds, these lands to be inspected by and approved by the county health department, and if present unsatisfactory dumps can be cleaned up and buried then the present threat to public health may be eliminated.

Toss Back "Monopoly" Task

The task of deciding whether the Aluminum Corp of America is to be given a chance to erase the stamp of monopoly placed upon it by judicial decision has been tossed back to the circuit court of appeals by the U. S. supreme court in the latest of a long series of legal maneuvers that began back in 1940.

The high court on Monday ruled that the appeals court must act on a government attempt to block a district court trial designed to determine whether ALCOA is monopolizing the aluminum market. The decision was unanimous, with Justices Murphy and Jackson taking no part in the case.

The tribunal held that the second circuit court of appeals which is in New York has "full amplitude of judicial power" to deal with the case.

In other actions Monday, the court:

To Take Up Barmaid Law

Voted 5-4 to order the U. S. district court in San Francisco to reconsider protests by Homer C. Price that he was convicted of bank holdup charges on false testimony knowingly used by a U. S. attorney. He was convicted in Detroit in 1938 and was sentenced to 65 years in Alcatraz. Justice Jackson complained that the action had opened the gate for endless retrials in a dissenting opinion. Chief Justice Vinson and Justices Frankfurter and Reed also dissented.

Agreed to rule on whether Michigan may bar barmaids in a state law that limits the licensing of female bartenders to the wives and daughters of male owners of licensed establishments. The law applies in cities over 50,000 population.

FIRE DAMAGES MANSION

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., May 25 — Fire swept the home of William E. Robinson, president of the Robinson Clay Products Co., last night, causing damage estimated by firemen at $75,000. Fire Capt Dwight Hinman said sparks from an incinerator ignited the mansion, and the blaze destroyed the top two floors of the three-story structure.

SPRINGFIELD ADOPTS CITY TAX ON INCOME

By The Associated Press

SPRINGFIELD, O., May 25—A one per cent payroll-income tax will go into effect here July 1.

City commissioners approved the tax last night, making Springfield the third Ohio city to adopt this form of revenue collection. Toledo and Columbus already are collecting an income tax.

Springfield's levy will be effective for five years. Commissioners estimated it will net $1,000,000 a year, and promised to decrease the rate if the tax produces a surplus.

The vote on the ordinance was 5 to 0. The levy has a basic $20-a-week exemption.

A five-member citizens' committee proposed the payroll tax to help the city solve its fiscal problems. The general fund now has an $807,000 deficit.

Commissioners said the tax also will replace fire and police protection and other city services cut back last year after an operating levy on real estate was defeated at the November election.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 25—Youngstown city councilmen, failing last night to develop any other program to meet a half-million dollar deficit, this week will consider adoption of the "Toledo Plan" one per cent income tax.

200 Attend Eagles Lodge Initiation

Two hundred Eagles and their families assembled at the Eagles building Sunday for the final initiation of candidates by Buckeye Aerie No. 337 FOE for this fiscal year.

Fifteen candidates were initiated at 2:30 p. m. in the lodge rooms, bringing the total of candidates initiated to 200 for the year. Initiation ceremonies were conducted by the exemplar team of Buckeye Aerie.

After the initiation ceremonies a dinner for 300 was served at 5:30 p. m. by the Eagles Ladies' Auxiliary. A social hour followed until 7:30 p. m. when Dr. and Mrs. Carroll Ritchie entertained with a display of magic.

Two simultaneous musical programs followed. A concert by Don Lester and his orchestra was given in the ballroom, while in the auditorium William Smith, pianist, presented a varied program of musical selections. All of the musical programs were recorded Sunday, with some 36 of the records to be added to the Eagles record library.

Visiting Eagles from Columbus, Delaware, Marysville, and Kenton, were present at Sunday's meeting.

New York Stock Quotations

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 25—Automobile and some other private industrial stocks pushed forward today in the wake of the General Motors wage settlement.

After a lively opening when several sizable blocks appeared on the ticker, trading slowed appreciably. Demand continued to follow a selective pattern and selling was a drag on a number of issues.

General Motors added a major fraction, touching a new 1946 high. The initial transfer was a block of 2,500 shares. Joining the advance were Chrysler, Studebaker, U. S. Steel, International Paper (after news of increased and extra dividends), American Tobacco, Woolworth, Penney and Commonwealth Edison.

Stocks retreating included Standard Oil, Douglas Aircraft, Union Pacific, Canadian Pacific, Gimbel, Western Union, Westinghouse Electric, Kennecott and International Nickel.

Richmond Braves Here Tonight for Series with Cubs

Ramon Peet Will Be on Mound For Marion in Quest of Third Victory

By BILL DIEM

Manager Ollie Byers will bring his seventh-place Richmond Braves to town tonight for the first of a two-night struggle with the Marion Cubs, currently just an average ball club with a won-lost record of 10 and 11.

On two previous meetings the Cubs have rebuffed the Braves, Ray Peet and Nick Alivojvodic turning the trick.

OLIE BYERS
Braves Here Tonight

It will be Peet's turn on the mound again tonight, he having pitched the Bruins to a walloping 20 to 1 victory over Newark last Thursday.

The Ashtabula hurler, who has given up an average of one hit for every inning pitched but who has also struck out nearly a batter an inning, will be bidding for his third win against a single setback.

Marchelli Tomorrow

If the pitching order should remain intact, Frank Marchelli will work against the Braves Wednesday night, giving the Cubs a fair chance of sweeping the series and climbing once again into the first division, which position was denied them by the terrible Zanesville Dodgers, who last week not only shoved them below in the town wherein the Muskingum, too, takes a Licking, but kept them in the mire in their own den, Swamp Fox town, over the weekend.

For Marchelli and Peet are the Bruins' No. 1 and No. 2 pitchers, at the moment at any rate.

Marchelli, like Peet a small pitcher when compared to big barrel-chested Nick Alivojvodic or lanky, long-limbed Si Pavkov, has pitched two very neat games of baseball since joining the Cubs from Sioux Falls, S. D., in the answer to a frantic SOS for pitchers sent to the head office in Chicago some two weeks ago.

Only five runners have crossed the plate in the 18 innings he has worked, only seven batters have been given a pass to first base, only 15 have hit safely

In fact, the only disturbing element in his record is that his two wins have been at the expense of the cellar-dwelling Newark Yanks. What he can do against the first division ball clubs is yet to be seen, but with the hitting the Cubs are capable of in back of him, the Beverly, Mass., portsider should be able to throttle even the top-notch outfits Muncie and Portsmouth are showing themselves to be.

Dark complexioned, Frank Marchelli stands five-nine when extended and weighs some 175 pounds. He bats as he throws, from the left.

A veteran of two years with the Army Air Corps, but classified as a rookie in organized baseball, Marchelli hopes to make athletics a lifetime career, if not as a baseball player, then as an athletic coach, and to further his chances he plans to enter Springfield, Mass., university in the fall, which school is noted for its physical education department.

Head of Class

His two and nothing record puts him at the head of the class, followed closely by Peet, who has pitched good ball in all of his four starts, though being charged with one loss against a more powerful Muncie Red aggregation.

Peet has gone the distance in three of his games, and lasted eight and one-third innings in the other, which game was subsequently won by Nick Alivojvodic, whose playing name, unfortunately, was lost somewhere in a shuffle which has sent him to three of the Chicago Cubs' farm teams.

Still known as Nick Sully in the head office, when he was dealt to Marion, he came out a mouthful.

And maybe an ace.

For though the South Chicago fire-baller was a wild deuce here last season, he has improved immensely since then, and is, in fact, the Chicago Cubs' chief hope and prospect on the local mound corps.

Leads in Strikeouts

Nick has struck out more than a man an inning—49, in fact, in 45 innings. But he has also given up 33 bases on balls and 43 hits.

He is the club's workhorse and has completed five of seven games, appearing in a winning relief role in one and was shelled out in the other. He has won three and lost three.

MAJOR LEAGUE VET RUINS AA NO-HITTER

By The Associated Press

It remained for a veteran of 13 years in the major leagues to spoil a no-hit pitching effort in the American Association Monday night.

The villain was Lonnie Frey, now with Minneapolis. He did his work as a pinch hitter against Louisville's Jack Griffore in the last inning. With one out, Griffore had one ball and two strikes on Frey when the veteran clubbed a clean single in the ninth. Griffore retired the next man and then Len Schulte got the second Miller hit. That was all, and Louisville won 4-0 with Griffore's 2-hitter going on the books as the best pitching chore for the Colonels this season.

Another bit of drama was enacted at Toledo. The Mudhens downed the league leading St. Paul Saints for the first time in nine tries, 6-5. Hank Arft, slammed a two-run homer in the eighth to erase a one-run St. Paul lead and pin the loss on Pat McGlothin. It was Arft's second four-bagger of the game.

Columbus ran its winning streak to nine games by pounding Milwaukee 11-2 to remain in second place, 14 percentage points ahead of Indianapolis. Mike Natisin paced an 11-hit Red Bird assault with three for four.

Indianapolis counted four runs in the opening frame then beat off Kansas City threats to win, 4-2.

ASHLEY BEATS SAM'S CLUB

Ashley Independents defeated Sam's Nite club softball team by a score of 9 to 6 Sunday at Ashley. J. Higgins of the Ashley team struck the major blow of the day as he connected for a homer with two on. Sam's had a big fourth inning, scoring four runs in their half.

Detroit Fans Beam Again, Newhouser Is Back in Form

By The Associated Press

Detroit's loyal baseball fans were beaming again today. Hal Newhouser, one of their greatest idols since Ty Cobb, finally has begun to look like the pitcher he was in 1944, 1945 and 1946.

Those were the years the southpaw star rolled up 80 victories while losing only 27 games.

Hal's return to form began last Wednesday when he hurled a masterful four-hitter against the Boston Red Sox. He followed yesterday with a seven-hit 5-2 triumph over the Washington Senators.

That was only Newhouser's third win of the season. Since he beat the Chicago White Sox in the opening game, he had been shelled from the mound five straight times and had dropped four decisions.

The victory was the Tigers' sixteenth against as many defeats and strengthened their hold on fourth place. They now enjoy a full game lead over the St. Louis Browns. The defeat dropped the Senators into a sixth place tie with the Boston Red Sox.

The Brooklyn Dodgers were enjoying a new experience today. They were riding high, wide and handsome on a one-game winning streak. The man responsible for Brooklyn's first success since May 13 was southpaw Preacher Roe. The Brooks had dropped eight straight to fall into the National league basement.

Roe went the route with an eight-hit 9-4 win over the Cincinnati Reds. Incidentally, it was Roe who won the last Dodger game via a 9-3 score, and then too it was the Reds who were the victims.

The victory pushed the Dodgers up two notches into sixth place, seven percentage points in front of the Chicago Cubs. The Reds dropped into the cellar.

Walter (Monk) Dubiel, who only 10 days ago blanked the New York Giants with three hits, pitched another three-hitter last night as the Phillies whipped the National league-leading St. Louis Cardinals, 5-2, in Philadelphia.

Johnny Blatnik, Philadelphia's fine-looking rookie outfielder, continued his spectacular hitting with a double and triple, driving in two runs.

No other major league games were scheduled.

COLUMBUS, O., May 25 — Ohio's racing commission today was under a court order to reject or approve Beulah Park Jockey club's application for running dates. The second district court of appeals issued the order yesterday, reversing the common pleas court. The commission and the Grove City track have been involved in a lengthy dispute over a new commission rule requiring totalizators.

New Pitcher Reports to Cubs

A new pitcher reported to the Marion Cubs today.

He is James Edgar, a six-foot, three-inch right hander from Centralia, Ill.

Edgar was sold to the Cubs by Clinton, Iowa, which ball club is now managed by Nelson Burbrink, who piloted the locals last year.

Edgar is classified as a veteran ball player, having been in organized baseball for three years.

Formerly a catcher with the St. Louis Cardinal organization, he was drafted by the Chicago Cubs and converted into a pitcher.

He is married and plans to bring his wife with him to Marion. He is 23 years old and was in the Army for three years.

BROOKS SEND REDS BACK INTO CELLAR

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, May 25 — Cincinnati fans were convinced today their Reds don't like the sunlight, for after spending just one day out of the National league cellar, the Redlegs tumbled back into the dark, No. 8 spot.

The Rhinelanders, arriving here for tonight's opener of a two-game set with the Boston Braves, were sure, however, that they had at least one group of friends, the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Cincinnatians fell before the Dodgers, 9-4, at Ebbets Field yesterday. That win ended an eight-game losing streak for the Dodgers and lifted them from the cellar after an overnight stay.

Preacher Roe, who had pitched the last previous Dodgers success at Cincinnati May 13, doled out eight hits in handcuffing the Reds. He had a no-hitter going until the sixth when catcher Ray Lamanno singled.

The Reds went on to score two runs after Lamanno's hit and then added two more unearned tallies in the seventh.

A six-run fourth inning was all the Dodgers needed to win.

Billy Cox, Dodger third sacker, homered off Bucky Walters, third Cincy hurler, in the sixth and Jackie Robinson did the same in the seventh.

All of the Cincinnati runs were unearned. Pee Wee Reese, Brooklyn shortstop, committed three errors, two of which figured in the Redleg scoring.

Named Director Of Ohio Golf Tourney

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 25 — Jerry Cannaley of Toledo will direct Ohio's 1948 public links golf tournament next month at Toledo.

His appointment was announced here yesterday by Mayor James A. Rhodes, president of the Ohio Public Links Golf association.

Rhodes named E. O. Gifford of Columbus and W. F. Bebout of Akron as Cannaley's assistants.

Sunningdale golf course will be host to the event June 16-19-20. Sixty-four district qualifiers will compete. This year's tourney is the first match play affair in the meet's history.

Val Chiverini of Toledo is the defending champion. He won here last year.

District qualifying meets are scheduled for Steubenville, Dayton, Akron, Youngstown, Toledo, Cincinnati and Columbus. Cleveland already has selected its 12-man team.

Paul Brown Talks to Athletes Honored by Columbus Club

By FRITZ HOWELL

Ohio Associated Press Sports Editor

COLUMBUS, O., May 25—Paul E. Brown, general manager of the Cleveland Browns, made his first public appearance last night since surrendering the Ohio State grid coaching [illegible] to enter the Navy.

A [illegible]nder, the former Massillon "miracle man" spoke at an [illegible] dinner honoring the 15 outstanding scholar-athletes of [illegible]s high schools.

[illegible] taking cognizance [illegible] reports that he'd like [illegible] his old job as boss of [illegible]s, Brown said:

"[illegible] know just what to talk [illegible] about getting into diffi[illegible] I'm not here to pick [illegible] these boys for my [illegible]

[illegible] to the honored guests.

"[illegible] boys, I'd like to say: [illegible] about the draft or [illegible] eventualities which our [illegible] facing. Go to college, [illegible] and be ready for any[illegible] comes along.

"[illegible] were you, I'd go to [illegible] There is no finer in[illegible]

No Conflict

Brown declared "there is no conflict between college and professional football—at least on the part of the professionals."

Recalling his days as Ohio coach, Brown said:

"I drove out past our old house today. Mrs. Brown and I planted some shrubbery there, and I was surprised to see how it had grown. Then I strolled across the campus, thinking of the old days, and my entire experience here came back to me as a pleasant dream."

Turning to professional ball, Brown said. "I believe the National and All-America leagues will get together before long. It's time we stopped fighting for personnel with which to fight each other. But I like to win, and we're after anyone who can help us win.

I miss old "Wid" (Carroll D. Widdoes, OSU assistant coach) for he was a quiet, efficient guy who kept me from cutting corners too sharply."

The only disturbing memory of Ohio State days, Brown, said, was the banquet honoring his 1943 "Baby Bucklings."

"In 1942 when we won the Big Ten and national championships, 1,500 persons turned out for the banquet," Brown said. "The following year, with a team of freshmen and 4-F players who did as much to uphold traditions as any team that ever represented the university, only 29 fans appeared at the banquet." The 1943 team won three, lost six.

AKRON, O., May 25—Pitcher Ronnie Neoray was the "double no-hit" star of Akron Garfield High school's baseball team today. He also hurled four innings of two other Garfield no-hitters earlier this year.

JOCKEY AND MOUNT IN NOSE FINISH — The suspense is breath-taking as Jockey Marvin Ferral hangs on head of his mount, Distime, before hitting the sod as he comes a cropper, in the mile and one-half hurdle race at Belmont Park, New York, (May 22). Epworth, St. Mary Teams, Forest Lawn Win Games

Greenwood and Epworth played the tightest game in the loop last night as the eight Church league teams featured high-scoring contest in the second night of league competition.

A home run by Hockton highlighted the game as Epworth downed Greenwood, 9-4, on ten hits in taking their second straight win. St. Mary No. 1 used a quarter whammy in handing Trinity Baptist their second defeat, 19-5. St. Mary No. 2 shut out F.B.C., 5-0, in raising their count to one up and one down. Forest Lawn continued on the unbeaten list with a 12-2 triumph over Oakland. The Oakies are still seeking.

Greenwood counted two runs in the first in taking a temporary lead over Epworth, but the Epworth mushball artists counted three in their half for a one-point lead and another in the second, before Greenwood knotted the count at four all in the third. They crossed the plate with three more in the fourth and one in each of the fifth and sixth in collecting 10 hits.

St. Mary No. 1 was never in danger, getting 4, 6, 4, and 5 in the first four times at bat in accumulating 19 runs on 20 hits. Teryo hit five for six including a homer to lead the Mary men.

Stuber pitched one-hit ball for St. Mary No. 2 while his mates counted seven as he shutout F.B.C. St. Mary erred only once while F.B.C. flubbed three.

Forest Lawn had little trouble in totaling 12 runs off 13 hits while Oakland pushed in two runs on four hits. Each team erred on three. Young of Forest Lawn batted the only four master.

GIVE MEMORIAL TO SON

By The Associated Press

SANDUSKY, O., May 25 — A memorial fund honoring a former Sandusky newspaperman will benefit crippled children in Erie and eastern Ottawa counties, under terms of the will of Mrs. Edith Motry filed in probate court here. Mrs. Motry's will stipulated one-third of annual income received from a clothing dye royalty should provide medical care for crippled children. The bequest was made as a memorial to the woman's late son, Paul, former reporter for the Sandusky Register-Star-News. The royalty returned $50,000 last year.

IT'S TURNESA AND HOGAN IN PGA FINALS

By The Associated Press

ST. LOUIS, May 25 — Firing against the great Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., today for the championship prize of $3,500 in the 30th Professional Golfers Association tournament was Mike Turnesa of White Plains, N. Y.

Mike was continuing a Turnesa tradition—three times now one of the seven Turnesa brothers have gone into the finals of the PGA.

On the basis of past tournament performances, Hogan figured to win rather handily today, but Mike was shooting a few extra licks for two of his brothers—Joe and Jim, the Turnesa's who failed to win the PGA after reaching the finals in 1927 and 1942, respectively.

Mike, who'll be 40 years old next month and is son number 4 in the Turnesa brood, goes into the finals by upsetting masters champion Claude Harmon of Mamaroneck, N. Y., 1-up in a rugged 37 hole match yesterday.

Hogan, born in Dublin, Tex., thirty-five seasons ago, advanuced to the finals over Jimmy Demaret of Ojai, Calif., 2 and 1.

P.-T.A. Honors Pupils To Enter Junior High

A tea given by the Silver Street P.-T. A. Friday afternoon at the school, honored pupils of the sixth grade who will enter Central Junior High school next fall, and their mothers. A program preceded the social hour.

A song by the group opened the program which included a piano solo by Gloria Pine, song by the sixth grade pupils, two numbers on the electric guitar by Shirley Clifton, novelty song by Joyce Bailey, Maxine Baker, Patricia Burnside, Jean Kidd, Gloria Pine, Gertrude Thomas, Sandra Scheitler, Adeline Brown, Lois Jones and Evelyn Wilson and a tap dance by Marie Clifton.

The farewell for the class was given by Shirley Blair and the response was by Clark Fouts, principal of the school. In his response Mr. Fouts announced the following five pupils as having had perfect attendance during the school year: Maxine Baker, Norma Hamilton, Larry Hoptry, Dolores Kierns and Yvonne Stinson; the following were named as having been absent only from one-half day to three and one-half days: Jean Simon, Richard Lutz, Shirley Blair, Gertrude Thomas, Marilyn Huggins, Shirley Clifton, Ina Mae George and Norma Jean Kidd.

The welcome to Central Junior High school was given by W. E. Orcutt, principal at Central, and the exercises closed with the class song written by Joyce Bailey. During the program the P.-T. A. presented a bulletin board to Miss Agnes Lutz, sixth grade teacher, in recognition of the class having the largest number of parents in attendance at P.-T. A. meetings during the 1947-48 school term.

Refreshments were served during the social hour by the P.-T. A.

All homemakers in these and surrounding communities are invited to attend the clinic. Homemakers in other communities desiring similar clinics are asked to contact Miss McMillan.

WATER PLANT NEEDS IN GALION STRESSED

Special to The Star

GALION, May 25—The Galion Rotary club Monday night heard a talk by Service-Safety Director John F. Porter on Galion's water problems.

Mr. Porter told the club that the shut-off valves of the city water distribution system are in bad condition. "No one knows how many valves are open or shut off in the city water lines," he declared. He also told the club that it is not known whether or not the main lines through the public square are carrying the volume of water which they should, and he explained that when these were installed years back that there was no standardization of valves—some were shut off by turning them to the right, while others were off when turned to the left. "It is a big task to locate, examine, and repair these shut-off valves; and it might be necessary to shut off water supply to an entire section of the city if these repairs should have to be made," Porter said.

The service-safety director said that because of the valve condition he would rather let a water line leak than shut off the entire water system in order to make the repairs. He explained that there are companies which locate water leaks, and bad valves, estimate the cost of the leak and the savings which will accrue from stopping these leaks.

Loss of water, and lack of proper pressure, are results of the leaks, and makes the water system an inefficient one, is the summary of Porter's talk.

40 Children Receive First Communion Here

A class of approximately 40 children received their first holy communion at the 7:30 o'clock mass Sunday morning in St. Mary Catholic church. The pastor, Very Rev. William J. Spickerman, V. F., gave the sermon and also was the speaker for the exercises in the afternoon when the children were invested in the Scapular of Mt. Carmel. The class included the following:

Gregory Axe, Marie Arcuri, Rita Bray, Gerald Benson, Carolyn Curtis, Linda and Sharon Dugan, Sondra Eshman, Terry Everly, Michael Galvk, Gloria Jackson, Henry Krighaum, Patricia Klaus, David Kelly, Kathryn LaVenia, Judith Lessig, Charles Lindsey, Judith Manuel, John Manfaci, Leo Murphy, David McKim, Thomas Moloney, Ross Morbitt, Daniel Neidig.

Kathleen O'Connor, Michael O'Brien, Herbert Pfeffer, James Quinn, William Ring, Judith Stephenson, John Simonis, Stephen Smith, M. Louise Shoemaker, Kathleen Sherer, Paul Sens, Judith Schlairet, Sharon Ann Terzo, Rita Terry, Joseph Voll, John Wilhelm and Eugene Yost.

HAS PAINFUL ACCIDENT

ASHLEY, May 25—Miss Sharon Burnside of Marion, formerly of Ashley, is recovering nicely from a severe eye injury which she received in Sunbury, May 9. She was visiting at the home of her father, Ernest Burnside and had seated herself in an outdoor swing which collapsed. An iron rod struck just below the left eye, making a gash which required five stitches to close. Fine glass was washed from the eye and eye lashes were turned inward by the force of the blow. Friends attribute the saving of the eyeball to the fact that she wore safety sun glasses at the time. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Burnside of Ashley.

Frances Willard Union Meets with Mrs. Hook

A meeting of the Frances Willard Union of the WCTU was held last Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Lorena Hook of 356 North Main street with Mrs. Nettie Orians presiding as leader. Group singing of the song, "This Is My Father's World," opened the meeting and was followed by prayer by Mrs. Mattie Gross and a poem, "A Soul to Keep," read by Mrs. Dora Stine. Plans were made for two lily-line unions, and an announcement was made that the Frances Willard union will present a part of the program to be given at the Marion County Home Sunday, June 6. A reading, "It Started in the Garden," by Mrs. Myrtle Peterman, was followed by a song by Mrs. Dorothy Ervin. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Bertha Gaster of 849 North Main street.

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, May 25—Following similar action by a cooperative board of railway brotherhoods, Union county prosecuting attorney William Coleman has filed a petition with the state utilities commission requesting an order requiring the New York Central railroad to return to operation a passenger train removed during the emergency caused by the coal strike some time ago.

The train in question is the northbound Columbus to Toledo formerly due in this city at 10:31 a. m. and at 5:43 p. m. on a return trip. Only one northbound and one southbound passenger train now pass through this city.

which will not be available until August.

The wage increases will go into effect Friday, when the present extended GM-UAW contract expires

Other Favorable Signs

Another sign that the third postwar economic battle in the automotive world might not result in a series of production-crippling walkout came when several GM locals, including the Buick Local at Flint, voted against a walkout

Although about 80 per cent of General Motors UAW locals have voted to strike, the break in the solid front weakened union negotiators' positions

The UAW originally demanded from G-M a flat 15-cent hourly raise plus another 15-cents in such "fringe" benefits as pensions and insurance plans From Chrysler, the union asked 30 cents hourly in cash plus another five cents in other benefits and from the Ford Motor company, where negotiations have not started, the union seeks 30 cents in cash plus an estimated 20 cents in benefits

FUNERAL OF U.S. WAR VICTIMS HELD

By The Associated Press

JERUSALEM, May 24 — (Delayed) — Funeral services were held today for Thomas C. Wasson, U. S consul general, and Chief Petty Officer Herbert Walker of the U. S. navy communications team. Both died Sunday of wounds from snipers' bullets.

While machineguns clattered and artillery shells burst only a few hundred yards distant, a simple but moving service was held in the compound of the Franciscan Convent of Santa Maria for the two men, the first known American dead in Jerusalem's 10-day battle

Wasson's coffin, of plain-cut pine, bound with tin stripping, was placed in the vault of the convent, in accordance with special dispensation from the Latin patriarch of Jerusalem. When the military situation permits, Wasson will be reburied on Mount Zion.

Walker's body, in a plain, dark-stained casket the only one to be found in Jerusalem, was interred inside the convent compound.

More than 10 per cent of Sweden's almost seven million population lives in Stockholm.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY

By AP Newsfeatures

PHILIP MURRAY, born May 25, 1886, rose from a poor immigrant— miner to head the CIO. He got a start as union leader when he punched a mine weighmaster and the dispute sparked a strike. When John L. Lewis started the CIO, Murray led the steel section. When Lewis left the CIO, Murray took over. His dispute with Lewis led to Murray's ouster from the mine union. Self taught, he has a broad education and is proud of his service on the Pittsburgh school board.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

Two fifth-graders flying a plane after one comic-book lesson is not too sensational . . . The whole world seems to be moving along comic book lines.

* * *

In fact I hear Washington has several unpublished strips in a drawer marked "top secret" and the artists have been invited to add laboratories to their drawing boards.

* * *

There was some doubt as to whether to charge the fifth-graders with delinquency or send them to Wright Field as instructors . . . We're still checking the rule book.

* * *

But the impact of the story was terrific in Moscow . . . I understand Stalin phoned the bureau of education and said "Tell me . . . Who have we got in kindergarten that can handle a four-motor job?"

* * *

The director said "Right now no one . . . They haven't finished their espionage course yet."

The name Arctic is derived from the Greek word for bear.
